Important

- The use of walking poles or other technical aid is allowed!
- Self-catering, which is provided by third parties outside of the official refreshment points can lead to the disqualification of the athlete concerned.

Security: Volunteer fire brigades, mountain rescue service, paramedics, doctors.

Route change/Race stop: in case of bad weather or dangerous conditions the event organizer has the right to change to an alternative, also homologated track. Every athlete must follow the instructions of the volunteers and the rescue team. If the race is stopped, the registration fee will not be refunded.

Cancellation of the race: may be due to force majeure. The organizer decides if part of the registration fee will be refunded, or the registration will be credited for the next year.

Health/Autonomy of the participants: Absolute surefootedness and no fear of heights are required. Every participant must be able to orientate himself on the course by his own power, even without outside help. We appeal to the self-responsibility and the common sense of every participant. Every runner takes part of his own risk. Only very well trained runners can master this alpine challenge - a good preparation is required. When leaving the refreshment stations, each participant is responsible for having sufficient liquid and food with him until the next refreshment station. Doctors and duty along the route and the final runner ("sweeper bus") are authorized to retire a runner from the race on medical grounds. If a competitor continues the race against a medical directive or run behind the official last control vehicle ("sweeper bus"), he does so at his own responsibility and without any entitlement to the Dolomites Ladinia Trail services.
